

Colette Hazen currently serves as Associate Vice President of Cloud Operations. Colette's leadership spans across Verizon's Wireline and Wireless Consumer and Enterprise lines of business. Her experience covers multiple functions that include network operations, channel experiences and readiness, vendor and field partnerships, and program management. Her success is a result of her dedication to drive alignment across business functions, plan and execute strategic initiatives, and to develop and energize large teams with passion. Colette's movement throughout her career has enabled her to drive operational improvements across the business.

Colette's role expands to her support in mentoring circles, STEM initiatives and college recruitment. She has represented Verizon in national recruitment events and led STEM programs for underprivileged schools. Outside of Verizon, Colette serves on the Rutgers Industry Advisory Board to support initiatives for women in STEM.
