

Theresa Rivera has over 25 years of experience in the telecommunications industry. Her current role is Distinguished Engineer for Network Planning at Verizon, where she has worked for seven years. Prior to Verizon, she was an Account Executive for Technology Strategy at Cisco Systems for three years, and a Cell Site Applications Engineer and Account Sales Technology Strategist at Alcatel Lucent for 16 years.

Theresa holds a Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering from Rutgers University and a Master of Science in Marketing from NJIT. She is married with two daughters and has a patent award for Automated Provisioning of 5G Node in Wireless Networks. She is also a former SHPE NJ President and, during her time at Rutgers, volunteered at 56 Place and WRSU, assisted a Ceramics Doctoral Candidate with Silica Sol gel research, and was a member of SWE & SHE.